Ambir Technology Teams Up with NewWave Technologies, Inc., to Distribute Ambir Digital Capture and Document Management Products and Solutions

Partnership enhances customer availability of Ambir products and solutions

Elmhurst, IL, August 12, 2014—Ambir Technology announces that last month it teamed up with NewWave Technologies, Inc., to distribute Ambir digital capture and document management products and solutions. NewWave Technologies is a national full-service distributor of Enterprise Content Management (ECM) technologies specializing in document and information management hardware, software and support services. Established in 1992, NewWave is headquartered in Frederick, MD, and has extensive distribution operations throughout the U.S.

NewWave is distributing Ambir’s full line of products and solutions, including card, document, workgroup and mobile scanners, signature pads, software and consumables.

“We are excited about this new relationship with NewWave Technologies,” said Mike O’Leary, CEO of Ambir Technology. “As a nationally recognized distributor for ECM products and solutions, NewWave has extraordinary expertise and success in bringing the right products, solutions and support to its highly regarded channel of resellers, integrators, independent software vendors and dealers to satisfy customers’ needs and requirements in effectively managing and using business critical information.”

“NewWave is pleased to have Ambir join our family of industry-leading digital capture and information management products, software and solutions,” said Tom Boyle, Vice President of Marketing, NewWave Technologies, Inc. “Adding Ambir’s award-winning digital capture and document management lineup notably enhances the choices we provide to our channel to help it better serve customers.”
